The basement has been washed and a new gas stove furnished by the Order of Eastern Star has been installed.

Plans are being made to enlarge the basement rooms by removing a partition, but may not be done for two months or more, Nelson said.

The lodge will observe past master's night Tuesday, Oct. 23 with a dinner and special entertainment. Arthur Palenski was made a Master Mason last Thursday night and second degree work was conferred this week on another candidate.

Mrs. Marguerite Hehn Held for Questioning After Death of Husband

Chicago police are holding Mrs. Marguerite Hehn of Antioch for questioning in connection with the death of her estranged husband, Jake Hehn.

Mr. Hehn's body was found in his room in the New Breslin hotel, 543 Madison st., Chicago Tuesday by a maid who said that a sharp pair of scissors, said to have been used in a stabbing, lay near him. Hehn had been stabbed in the left side and in the forehead.

Joseph Kelley, Chicago homicide squad, said Mr. and Mrs. Hehn were seen together Monday night, and that she was held for questioning upon her return to the hotel this morning. He said that in Sept. Mrs. Hehn was arrested after she had gone to Mr. Hehn's room in the hotel and wrecked it, throwing his belongings through the glass of a window into Madison st. She was said to have given the police a hard time in getting her in the patrol car.

Kelley said that Mrs. Hehn formerly lived at 220 Willow rd. in Lombard, but left there for Antioch after fitting the apartment for rental purposes.

In Antioch her three children from her marriage to Hehn were being provided for by Hans Johnson of Orchard st., who told Kelly he was Mrs. Hehn's uncle. A friend of Mrs. Hehn was hired to take care of the children while she worked in Chicago as a beauty operator.

Johnson said Mrs. Hehn and her husband were divorced but Chicago police said they had been seen together frequently in recent weeks. Mrs. Hehn was a former beauty operator in Antioch.

Lake county farmers were urged by Farm Adviser Ray T. Nicholas to attend a county-wide brucellosis meeting on October 23 to learn how they can clean up their herds to meet public health regulations.

Lake county is one of the first counties in Illinois to hold this type of meeting.

Speakers at the meeting will include Dr. N. H. Howlett of the U.S. Bureau of Animal Industry, Dr. L. A. Davenport of the State Department of Public Health, Roy Yong, state Director of Agriculture, and representative of agricultural organizations including the Farm and Home Bureaus and the Pure Milk Ass'n.

Dr. John D. Foley, physician in Waukegan, who has had considerable experience in handling undulant fever cases, will tell how this disease affects humans.

Grade School Expansion Voted by School Board To Satisfy Enrollment

Meeting of Board and PTA With Architects Set for Nov. 19

Construction of eight additional classrooms to take care of the expanding enrollment is planned by the Antioch Grade school board of education.

The board at its meeting Tuesday evening after voting to start its planning immediately for the addition to the present building, instructed representatives of the firm of Ganster and Henningshausen, architects, to be present at a combined meeting of the Parent Teacher association and the school board on Nov. 19 to present plans to the proposed addition, and to give relative cost information.

A representative of the board said that with the enrollment in all grades approaching an average of 51 pupils a grade it will be necessary to have two sections for each grade by the fall of 1952. This will create a need for seven additional classrooms next year, and the board believes that plans should be made immediately to care for this ever-increasing enrollment.

Principal Richard Whitacre said that in anticipation of the possibility of expansion, the board had purchased a large enough boiler for the most recent addition to take care of the seven or eight rooms that will be needed, so that cost in the heating system will be eliminated.

WHEN A TOWN LOSES ITS RAILROAD

What happens to a town when it loses its railroad? A very interesting editorial in the Woodstock, Vermont, Standard, answers that question. Years ago the Woodstock railroad was abandoned and, at the time, many people thought it was a good thing and that the town would get along better without it. But here's what the Standard has to say: "It has now been roughly 18 years since Woodstock ceased to have railroad service. With modern highways, passenger cars and trucks, one would say nothing has been lost but the fascination which is held for us 'old-timers' by railroads."

"Strangely, however, we note on our last newspaper invoice that it cost $33.09 to get three tons of paper shipped from Gatineau, Que., to White River Junction by rail—and roughly $10 to get the paper trucked to Woodstock from the Junction."

"Obviously, railroads do have some advantages for certain types of freight shipments."

"In spite of all arguments, we still insist that a town which loses its railroad is in danger of drying up."

The taxes paid by the railroads are one of the biggest and most dependable sources of revenue for town and counties and other units of government. The money spent by railroads for construction and maintenance goes to make business and payrolls in every section of the country. And when it comes to the big hauling jobs, the railroads are in a class by themselves—no other agency can do them so surely, efficiently, and cheaply.

Yes, a town without a railroad really lacks something important!

WELL DONE

A short time ago a California power and light utility* dedicated a new $80,000,000 steam generating plant, with a capacity of 500,000 kilowatts. This was the ninth of a series of new plants to be brought into operation by the company since V-J day, and others are in process of construction and expansion. In the past half dozen years this single utility's improvement program has represented an investment of nearly $800,000,000 and in about two more years the figure will pass $1,000,000,000.

The San Francisco Call-Bulletin ran a long editorial on these achievements. At the end it said, "All of this, mind you, was done, not with expensive, and burdensome disbursements of the taxpayer's money, but with private capital, supplied by the company's some 180,000 stockholders, plus the 'indirect' investors who have contributed through the purchase of company securities by banks, insurance companies, etc."

"A program like this does not consume taxes, but adds to tax revenues; it does not dissipate economic wealth, but creates it; it does not depress the standard of living, but elevates it."

"It is a fine example of how private enterprise, 'publicly' owned in the sense that thousands of investors have a share in it, serves the public and enriches our economy."

There is nothing unique about the California utility's program. In every section of the nation other utilities, of all sizes, have been quietly building new facilities and improving old ones—and meeting every demand for service by industry, agriculture, and the home consumer. Here is the complete and final answer to those who argue that only Federally socialized, tax-exempt power development can adequately meet our needs. Today, as ever, free enterprise can do the job—and as the Call-Bulletin said, it elevates, instead of depressing, our living standards while doing it.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Today, I will delve into gas, not the kind of gas you maybe thing I spout—but the kind you turn on under the teakettle and skillet. I am against too high prices for anything—anyway, everything except "essays" and "columns." It is the same with all you nice folks—you are not too much opposed to good prices for whatever it is that you sell or do. But gas or electricity, wow, how most people snort when some company must add 2 or 3 cents a day to each household's bill. And that is what is going on here with gas at Hickory—but it is only the second boost in 30 years. Imagine that, as you thumb the newspaper and check up on ice boxes, 2x4's, squirrel whiskey, hair cuts—and taxes.

Now, to get personal, and tell you why I am on the gas company's side of the fence in today's essay. In our domicile—Susie's and mine—the bill for gas averages $2.68 a month, and this includes cooking and most of the house heating. It also includes the water heating. And to get even more personal, I have never missed a Saturday night yet, and Susie, she is the bathingest person you could meet.

A month's gas bill of 2.68 is about the same price as one chicken for dinner—not the whole dinner—just the chicken. Down to brass tacks, gas is cheap—all kinds—mine and the gas company's. And the same goes for the kilowatts galore used throughout our domicile.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

Her career is the direct result of a literary and dramatic background. A number of her plays have been successfully produced by the Hinsdale Village Players, the Theater of Western Springs and other local groups.

Gifts and Thanksgiving Offerings Dedicated at St. Ignatius

Blessed for use at the altar in the church were the following articles given to St. Ignatius' Episcopal Church. A pair of silver water and wine cruets, given by an anonymous parishioner as a thankoffering, a pair of wrought iron seven-branch candelabra, given by Mrs. E. L. Simons and Mrs. L. E. Murrie in memory of Ernest L. Simons; a small figure of St. Ignatius of Antioch, presented by an anonymous friend of the parish and done in ceramic paint by Mrs. C. W. Smith. The figure depicts St. Ignatius, Bishop and Martyr, the patron of the parish, holding one of his famed epistles or letters, and in chains enroute to his martyrdom in Rome. St. Ignatius was 3rd Bishop of Antioch in Asia Minor about 110 A.D.

The Bishop of Chicago, the Rt. Rev. Wallace E. Conkling, presented the parish with the gift of new floor tiling throughout the nave and entryway in commemoration of St. Ignatius' attainment of parish status. At the same time the pews were re-arranged to give a more spacious appearance in the chancel, and the transept was restored.

The church is always open for prayer and meditation; the public's visit of the newly decorated church is invited.

Here's why Fordomatic puts them all in the past!

For the past year, automotive writers, engineers and owners have been raving about a new kind of automatic driving... and here's why you get it only in Ford Cars:

All the power you need when you need it!

Some automatics have this

The automatic drive some cars offer you is a torque converter which multiplies torque without the use of gears. Its advantage is a smooth flow of power. Its disadvantage is a smaller range of torque multiplication which requires more power from the engine and an uneconomical axle ratio which increases costs.

Some automatics have this

Other cars offer an automatic drive that uses automatic gears (as illustrated in simplified form at right) instead of a torque converter. The advantage here is more "go," more control and greater economy. The disadvantage is that this system is not as smooth, nor as jerk-free as a torque converter.

It gives you instant "GO!"

It practically drives itself!

But Fordomatic has both

Yes, Fordomatic has a torque converter plus automatic gears. It brings you only the advantages of both drives. Unlike cars with only a torque converter (which start and cruise all in one drive gear), Fordomatic starts fast and smooth in Intermediate Gear then shifts itself into Drive Gear.

Churches Unite

Lesson for September 16, 1951

MORE THAN 200 different denominations of the Christian church exist in the United States alone. Several of these claim to be the one and only "true" church, but even those that do not make this claim are sufficiently pleased with themselves to stay on as separate denominations. Some Christians find this division of Christendom a scandal and a sin. Others find it the glory of Protestant Christianity that it has freedom and room for so many varieties of Christian faith. Has the Bible anything to say about this?

Dr. Foreman

The Mother of All Churches

You will not find such words as "denomination" in the New Testament. Such words as Episcopalian, Lutheran, Baptist (referring to a church), Presbyterian, Mennonite, Roman Catholic, or other modern tags, are not to be found in the Scriptures.

All the same, our lesson passages give us some important suggestions. Luke tells how horrified the disciples were at discovering some one not of their own organization, doing good work in Jesus' name. They would have stopped him; but Jesus said, "He that is not against us is for us."

That is a good way to think about other Christian churches. The story in Acts 11 tells how churches in the earliest times helped one another in various ways. II Cor. 9 shows how the good example of one church can be a challenge to others to do still better.

As that Jerusalem meeting handed down a decision affecting many congregations and persons, so now the findings and decisions of great bodies of churches have a weight and an importance far beyond what might be said by single congregations. That council was the mother of all councils as the New Testament church was the mother of all churches.

All Christians Are Brothers

IN HIS first letter to that problem church of Corinth, their first pastor Paul urges the different parties in the church to remember above all that they are Christ's people rather than any one's else. The name of Christ is far more important than any of our denominational labels.

In his letter to the Philippians Paul says an even more striking thing. "I know that some are preaching Christ out of jealousy, to annoy me . . . but what does it matter? The fact remains that Christ is being preached, whether sincerely or not, and that fact makes me very happy."

In America today we are beginning to catch the New Testament spirit. Taking the situation as a whole, there is more get-together-ness than fly-apart-ness among the churches. Cooperation is taking many forms. Locally in communities, or in state-wide interdenominational associations, or on a national scale, churches are doing together what separate churches or denominations would find difficult or impossible.

Besides recent large mergers of denominations such as the union of Methodists north and south, the Evangelical United Brethren, the Evangelical and Reformed, and Congregational-Christian, there are many other groupings of like-minded churches, pooling their resources for evangelism, education, missionary work and many other purposes.

Message to the People

THE largest and most impressive get-togethers are the National Council of Churches of Christ in America which includes every large American denomination but two; and the great World Council of Churches with member-churches in every Christian land.

These words from the first message of the National Council to the people of America ring out the spirit of unity growing today: "This council has been constituted by 29 churches for the glory of God and the well-being of humanity. It manifests our oneness in Jesus Christ as divine Lord and Savior; his is the mandate we obey and his the power on which we rely. Our hope is in him. In him we see the solution of the world's ills. The Council itself is a demonstration of his power to unite his followers in joyous co-operation."

Fire Prevention and Civil Defense Go Hand in Hand

Fire prevention is an important part of civil defense. If an enemy attacks this country, his bombs, whether they be atomic, high explosive, or incendiary, will cause more damage by fire than they will by blast. Hence, anything done to make it hard for fires to start is a step towards preparing your community to protect itself if war comes.

The majority of all fires start in trashpiles, rubbish, or stored odds and ends that accumulate around the house. Closets, attics, and cellars are the main source of home fires, and plain ordinary good housekeeping is a strong line of defense against them.

Clean out your storage places. You will be surprised at how many burnable odds and ends are really useless to you. Don't let them make your home a fire hazard. Get rid of them. If local welfare agencies can't use them, call the junk man.

Don't stop when you've cleared out the inside of your house. Go after rubbish in your back yard, in alleys and in vacant lots near your home. Collect the rubbish and burn it. Don't leave it around to burn if an enemy bombs your city. Be sure to burn rubbish in metal containers.

Take a look at your electrical system. Buy new plugs and cords if yours are worn. Get advice from an electrician if your fuses blow frequently. They may be dangerously overloaded. His advice may prevent a bad fire.

Every winter costly fires are started by faulty furnaces, stoves, and other heating plants. Some result from too much soot in chimneys. Others are caused by rusted or cracked pipes and fittings. Look over your heating system now. If your chimney needs it, clean it out. If the furnace pipes and connections are cracked and rusted, replace them.

Teach your family not to put magazines, papers, or clothing on radiators or near open flames. Don't hang flimsy curtains near your kitchen stove. Don't allow lamp shades to come in contact with light bulbs. Remember that such things don't have to touch flame to burn. They will catch fire simply because they are too close to the heat for too long.

Gasoline, benzene, naphtha, and similar fluids should never be used indoors. When mixed with air, their vapors can be ignited by the spark of a light switch or an electric fan, or the tiny flame of a pilot light. Keep such fluids in tightly closed metal containers outside your home.

And remember: oil-soaked rags, especially rags that have been used to spread quick-drying liquids such as turpentine, paint thinners, and some furniture polishes, can catch fire by themselves. Oily rags should be stored in air-tight metal containers. It is best to keep them outside the house.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The fraudulent nature of belief in the reality of matter—and the fact of the absolute supremacy of God, infinite Spirit, will be explained in next Sunday's services in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The title of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday, September 23, is "MATTER."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (73: 26) "My flesh and my heart falter; but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever."

Lesson-Sermon passages from the Bible (King James Version) include the following:

"We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair . . . While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal" (II Cor. 4: 8, 18).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"Throughout the infinite cycles of eternal existence, Spirit and matter neither concur in man nor in the universe . . . Matter does not express Spirit. God is infinite omnipresent Spirit. If Spirit is all and is everywhere, what and where is matter? . . . The spiritual fact and the material fact of things are contradictions; but the spiritual is true, and therefore the material must be untrue" (pp. 319, 223, 289).

SHORT STORY

The O'Maddigan's

By Patrick J. O'Brien

TOMORROW is Flannagan's wake. Kathy O'Maddigan recalled, as she hurried up the brownstone steps leading to the apartment where she and Paddy had lived since their marriage three years ago, this very day.

3-Minute Fiction

Kathy smiled as she visualized the new spring outfit she would wear at the gathering. Paddy was proud of her dress, too, even if he didn't say so. She knew he liked the way it emphasized her figure. Of course he had complained about the cost, adding: "If you want to waste money on clothes, you should have married a banker."

But the argument about the dress was not the real reason she had left. The breaking point was reached when Paddy had refused to buy the darling bonnet displayed in Murphy's window. "Ridiculous!" he said.

Ridiculous? How could a hat be ridiculous when every day, for nearly a month, she had stopped to look in the window and admire it.

Reaching the apartment door, she turned the knob, but the door refused to open. Apprehensively, she turned the knob back and forth, but to no avail. She was locked out. Kathy blushed furiously with indignation.

Then she exploded:

"Open this door! Do you hear me?" she shouted, pounding frantically on the warped panels. "It's not enough that I work myself to the bone so a body can have a decent home to live in. No, I must be locked out of my own home. My home, mind you!"

"Your home," Patrick O'Maddigan's voice vibrated through the thin partition. "Is it now? And only this morning you were ready to walk out of my house."

"When I get my hands on that stubborn neck of yours," Kathy O'Maddigan shouted, "I'll . . ."

"Sure now," Paddy said, "would you be wanting to harm your bread and butter?"

"Open this door, I say!"

"In good time, woman," Paddy replied. "It's your Irish temper that has the best of you."

"Temper!" Kathy shouted. "A fine one you are to be talking of an Irish temper. Who was it that woke the neighbors with this carrying on in the wee hours of the morning?"

No answer.

"It was Patrick O'Maddigan, that's who it was. And all because I wanted the money to buy the hat."

"BUT the price, woman. I couldn't afford a week's wages for a bit of lace and cloth."

"Don't you want your wife to be the best dressed lady at the wake tomorrow?" Kathy asked.

"Your home," Patrick O'Maddigan's voice vibrated through the thin partition. "Is it now?"

"That I do, but could you not purchase a hat that's more reasonable in price?"

"I had my heart set on wearing that hat to the wake," Kathy said. "Don't you love me?"

"It's not a question of love," Paddy replied, "it's the money I'm thinking of."

"Then you'll not buy the hat for me?"

Silence.

"Let me in, Paddy," Kathy pleaded, a pathetic note creeping into her voice. "I'll be good . . ."

There were sounds of movement in the apartment. Then Kathy heard a key rattle in the lock. Swiftly she stooped, slipped a shoe off her foot and straightened up with it grasped firmly in one small hand.

She struck swiftly as the door was opened suddenly. But it was so sudden that Kathy was thrown off balance and the momentum carried her to the center of the room. She landed unceremoniously on her hands and knees.

Brushing aside a strand of hair that was tickling the tip of her nose, she looked up at Paddy who was standing beside the open door. In his hand was a bit of Kelly green and a little white veil with a pink and blue ribbon on the side.

"You did buy it Paddy. But . . . you . . . said . . ."

"I meant to surprise you Kathy," Paddy explained. "I couldn't let you down. Have your forgotten our wedding anniversary?"

"Oh, Paddy," she said tenderly.

Right From The Farm

FOLLY TURKEY FARM

Trevor, Wisconsin

What's the fastest-growing line of trucks in America?

Look around you—in cities, on farms, at terminals and loading docks—wherever goods are moved on wheels.

More and more, the pay load's packed on a GMC.

You see those letters on medium and heavy Diesels, the most economical workers in their field. For GMC means first in Diesel power.

You see gasoline-powered GMC's front-running the highways of America—pace-setting delivery of the necessities of peace and war.

You see nimble bantamweights of the family—the highest-powered 1/2- to 2-tonners made—outpulling, outhauling every other truck in their class.

Ever wonder why GMC is gaining a greater percentage of the industry than any other truck-maker?

Ask the truck drivers themselves.

See the confident way they talk of the power plants, the broad-shouldered chassis—the way a GMC handles.

Ask about the tons they've hauled, the miles they've logged—the nip-and-tuck schedules they've licked time and again.

Ask these cost-wary haulers why they've made GMC the fastest-growing fleet in the land.

They'll tell you it's because GMC is the finest motor truck made.

If you'll come in, we'll show you why we think they're right.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

What About Swine Enteritis?

Q: What causes swine enteritis?
A: The word "enteritis" means an inflamed intestine. There are several types of enteritis; some contagious, others not.

Q: Which types are most serious?
A: "Necro", a swine dysentery, and infectious gastroenteritis of baby pigs generally cause heaviest losses.

Q: What do they look like?
A: Necro spreads slowly, with gradual loss in weight, scouring, failure to gain. Swine dysentery is a fast killing, high fever sickness with bloody scouring. Baby pig enteritis is characterized by heavy losses, vomiting, scouring.

Q: How can such losses be prevented?
A: First, be sure breeding stock is free of "carrier" animals. Never allow newly-purchased swine to mix with the home herd. If pigs and sows show signs of weight loss or scouring, get a veterinarian's diagnosis immediately. Clean up filthy yards, old hot wallows where enteritis germs thrive.

Q: What other precautions can be taken?
A: Ear mark each litter and sow. If trouble shows up in the pigs, infected sows can be isolated.

Q: If enteritis starts, how can losses be stopped?
A: Treatment depends on identifying which type of enteritis is causing the trouble. So the best step is to obtain an accurate diagnosis the moment trouble appears.

NOTE—Due to space limitations, general questions cannot be handled by this column.

Buying Tip
When buying lettuce, choose heads that are heavy for their size, and have crisp, fresh-looking leaves which are green and tender.

Colored Cotton
All cotton is not white. It varies from white to dark cream. There also are some brown and green lint cottons.

First Martyr
First Christian martyr on American soil was a Franciscan missionary killed by Indians in Kansas about 1544.

New York Builders Busy
Builders erected 425,000 new dwelling units in the New York metropolitan area from 1946-1950.
